

Eden Park Primary and Nursery School Curriculum INTENT

Why have we designed our curriculum the way that we have?

We have taken time to produce a carefully considered curriculum so that children know more, remember more and can do more. This is achieved through an enquiry-based model which promotes independence and equips children with vital skills which can be applied to any aspect of life and learning. Our model motivates children to learn by aiming to make learning exciting, inspiring and encouraging their curiosity.

The National Curriculum forms the spine of our curriculum. From this root, we have sequenced each subject to ensure knowledge and skills are built upon as children journey through school. Our curriculum structures both disciplinary and substantive knowledge. Our curriculum reflects the location of our community so that the work the children do is relevant and purposeful.

Our curriculum is designed to support the personal development of all children. Eden Park's learning values are integral to the model as they provide support for children to develop as people. British Values are explicitly referenced in our curriculum plans and we work hard to develop responsible citizens who are able to contribute to society.

As children reach the end of their journey at Eden Park, we are confident that they will have gained a depth of curriculum knowledge and a love for learning. Their character will have developed and children should leave with ambition as we would have enriched the potential of every child. We aim for children to head into their future with confidence and influence and be successful in whatever path they wish to take.
